He made a List and helped them all...

Oskar Schindler was one of the most important people in the Holocaust. He was a German businessman who made ammunition for the Nazis. Even though Schindler came from a German family and profited from the war, he saw the error in the Nazi's ways. He also helped save the the lives of a lot of jewish people. Mr. Schindler was a savior to the Jewish men, women and children. That is what makes him such a memorable man in history.

Oskar Schindler single handedly saved over 1,200 Jewish men, women and children. That is more than any other one person saved during the Holocaust. Mr. Schindler was a modern saint. He saved entire families from persecution from the Nazis. Many Jewish families today can thank him for their lives. He out-smarted Adolf Hitler and all of his men by hiding the Jewish men, women and children in plain sight and saved the lives of so many innocent people.

Schindler employed as many people as he could in turn saving them. When a Jewish person was employed and helping Hitler's cause they were allowed to stay alive. This man employed the Jewish instead of hiding them in some kind of cramped bunker or moldy basement. This saved even more lives than a bunker would and it kept them healthier.

Mr. Schindler was a true hero. He saved people from persecution all while staying under the radar. This is why Mr. Schindler was one of the most important people in the Holocaust.
